Connect with new audiences and expand your reach with help from the world’s most influential network of design professionals. Founded in 1857, AIA New York is the oldest and largest chapter of the American Institute of Architects. The Chapter’s members include over 5,000 practicing architects, allied professionals, students, and public members interested in architecture and design. AIA New York is dedicated to three goals: design excellence, public outreach, and professional development.
ABOUT AIA NEW YORK

AIA New York is the voice of New York’s architecture and design industry.

To fulfill its mission, the Chapter organizes an array of initiatives, programs, and exhibitions that explore topics vital to the architecture profession, including housing, planning, historic preservation, and urban design. Its storefront, the Center for Architecture, is a gathering place for all those interested in the built environment.

The Chapter coordinates the activities of more than 25 committees and works with the Center for Architecture K-12 education and development teams to provide scholarship and educational opportunities for students and the general public. Each year, AIA New York also hosts a Design Awards Program to recognize design excellence in five categories: architecture, interiors, urban design, projects, and sustainability. In addition, the Chapter publishes a quarterly print magazine, Oculus, and a bi-weekly digital newsletter.
IMPACT AND ENGAGEMENT

Here are just a few ways AIA New York engages with its members and the New York AEC industry:

- 350+ public programs and events per year.

- Continuing education services provide architects and allied professionals opportunities to develop critical skills relevant to modern practice.

- The biennial New Practices New York competition serves as the preeminent platform to recognize and promote new and innovative architecture and design firms in NYC.

- The Civic Leadership Program develops a class of emerging architectural professionals into civic leaders by refining the critical skills that design professionals need to better represent the people that they serve.

- Global impact through AIA New York’s annual Design Awards program, with hundreds of submissions from six continents celebrating design excellence.

- Robust community outreach, alongside the Center for Architecture, through Archtober – New York’s official Architecture and Design Month – as well as year-round boat and walking tours led by expert architect members.
AIA New York is proud to collaborate with organizations that share our mission and values, among them:

UN Sustainable Development Solutions Network
World Monuments Fund
